County Begins Negotiations to Buy 209-Acre Glenn Dale Hospital Site

by Virginia Beauchamp

Although the Glenn Dale Hospital site off Route 450 stands outside Greenbelt's jurisdiction, city officials have long been interested in what might become of this 209-acre facility. Standing on prime property in a rapidly developing area, the hospital and grounds could have become a target for private developers interested in highrise apartments or commercial space and thus increasing exponentially the volume of traffic along Greenbelt Rd. Alternatively, since they were owned by the District of Columbia, the hospital grounds could have been used for a prison facility or even a landfill site.

Now these possibilities seem less likely. By an act of the Prince Georges County Council on August 30, tentatively approving a $3.9 million purchase price set by appraisers Lipman, Frizzell & Mitchell, the county has directed its staff to begin negotiations to purchase the property and to keep it primarily in green space. This outcome was made public at a press conference called by County Executive Parris Glendening, which was also attended by Congressman Steny Hoyer and Council Chairperson Jo Ann Bell.

Open Green Space

"Glenn Dale citizens and the County have been concerned about the fate of this property for years," Glendening said. "We are putting the destiny of these 209 acres in the hands of the citizens and the county and that is a positive breakthrough for the future of the surrounding communities and the entire jurisdiction."

County Councilman Richard Castaldi, who represents the city of Glenn Dale as well as Bowie and Greenbelt, agreed. "The proposal to retain open space in Glenn Dale is considerably more pleasing than any alternatives and certainly would lend relief to traffic congestion along the Route 450 corridor," he said.

Glendening said he expects to schedule a public hearing during the month of October to solicit citizen input on future plans for the property. "Glenn Dale is in need of an open space area," Glendening said, "and this site would be appropriate."

History of Site

The jurisdictional history of the Glenn Dale site is long and complicated and Congressman Hoyer played a major role in sorting it out. Built originally as a sanitarium for children with tuberculosis, which in the era before antibiotics usually required several years of bed-rest to effect a cure, the hospital was constructed on property deeded to the United States in 1930 for a District of Columbia project. Authorization to use the site for a hospital came through an act of Congress. The last patient was treated in 1972 and the hospital was closed.

In 1983, when the District of Columbia tried to lease the property, the federal government filed suit, claiming that the District could not control the property, since it was no longer being used for its original purpose. Nevertheless, both the U.S. District Court and the U.S. Court of Appeals agreed with the District that it could control the property, even though title was held by the United States.

In 1987 Rep. Hoyer described the Catch-22 situation in which the property then existed: "The federal government holds title, but has been found by the courts to have no right to control the property. The District controls the property and could lease it, if a lessor could be found. The District does not, however, have the right to sell it. Prince Georges County has an obvious interest in the Glenn Dale site, but no right to determine the disposition of it."

Bill Allows Sale

In order to clear up these ambiguities, Hoyer introduced a bill conveying title of the land from the federal government to the District of Columbia. Following passage of the bill by both houses of Congress, President Ronald Reagan signed it into law in October 1988.

In order to effect a sale of the property from the District to Prince Georges County, a complicated formula was worked out by means of which D.C. Mayor Marion Barry and Glendening each selected an appraiser. Following their independent collection of data, the two appraisers would then select a third appraiser, who would set the price for the property based on information gathered by the other two. At the time the possibility seemed unlikely that the county itself could become the purchaser.

Interviewed in 1988, Castaldi expressed doubt that the county itself could get the property. Although some developers reportedly are still also interested in obtaining it, the likelihood now that they can succeed seems a little dimmer.

Police Seek Help In Halting Thefts

by Mary Lou Williamson

The rash of break-ins in the Greenbelt Homes area has continued this week and spread to new areas, Cpl. David Buerger, Greenbelt Police Department spokesman, told the News Review early Tuesday morning. Police are requesting citizens' help, he said. First, take precautions. Keep doors and windows locked and purses and cash out of sight. Second, be on the lookout and report any suspicious activity to police at 474-7200.

Most incidents this week have occurred at night and only a purse or other "quick take" valuable was taken. In half the cases an unlocked door or window provided easy access. One intruder was confronted by the resident returning home. The description is of a white man, age unknown, 6 ft. tall, husky, black hair and wearing a plaid or flannel shirt, blue jeans and light-colored gloves. The intruder fled, having taken only a can of beer from the dining room table.

Eight incidents occurred in four days from September 28 through October 1—three on Ridge Road and one each on Lakeside Drive, Hedgewood Drive, Crescent Road, Mamplewood Court and Westway (University Square Apartments).

The largest heist was made during the day at the Hedgewood Drive home. The thief broke a window to gain entry and then took jewelry, cash, a complete stereo system, VCR, two color TVs, and a computer with printer and modem.

Stereo equipment was taken also from one of the Ridge Road break-ins.

Victims were at home asleep in most cases. One victim told police he had heard a small crash downstairs, but thought it was the family cat.

OCTOBER IN THE GALLERY

From October 8-October 26, the Library Gallery at Greenbelt Library will present watercolors by Jay Brubaker, Greenbelt. Gallery hours are Monday-Thursday, 2-8 p.m.; Friday and Saturday 2-5 p.m.

GSA to Build Courthouse Just Outside City Limits

by Elaine Skolnik

The General Services Administration (GSA) recently announced plans for the construction of a new federal court house on the fringe of the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (BARC) across from the Capital Office Park. The facility, officially called the southern division of the U. S. District Court of Maryland, will be situated on an 8.5 acre tract immediately north of Cherrywood Lane near Edmonston Road. The property is northeast of the planned Metro Yards.

GSA expects to contract with an architectural firm to design the 115,000 square foot courthouse, which will serve Prince Georges, Montgomery, Calvert, Charles and St. Mary's counties. The design and site plans will then be sent to the National Capital Planning Commission, the agency charged with reviewing structures built on federal property. The Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission is also expected to review the plans. The $21.9 million project is scheduled for completion in late 1993 when the Greenbelt Metro line is expected to become operational.

A Donated Site

In selecting the land for the courthouse, GSA advertised for donated sites located close to major highways in heavily populated northern Prince Georges County within five miles of Montgomery County. Among the many responses were properties located in Hyattsville, Laurel and two on BARC land. Rejected because it was too visible and would intrude into the major center of BARC was a tract on Route 1. The Cherrywood Lane/Edmonston Road site was considered most desirable because of its accessibility to the Beltway, major highways, Metro and Montgomery County. Possibly factored in was the proposed improvement of Kenilworth Avenue which would eventually hook up with the proposed Inter-County Connector that is designed to run from Montgomery County to Route 1 near Muirkirk Road. (At the present time the ICC is stalled on the drawing boards because of controversy over the highway's route in Montgomery County).

GSA notes that although a preliminary analysis of the selected site did not show an impact on wetlands or disturb drainage patterns, an Environmental Impact Assessment will be conducted. Apparently an act of Congress will be needed to give the land, which has not been declared surplus, to GSA.

Seven Courtrooms

According to Chief Clerk Joseph A. Haas of the Baltimore Federal Court, the new federal courthouse will house seven courtrooms—a large ceremonial courtroom and two standard-size courtrooms for judges, plus smaller courtrooms for two magistrates and two bankruptcy judges. He noted that the new court, a "full service facility," will have space for a supporting staff of clerks, marshals, prosecutors, probation officers and others.

Haas also observed that the courthouse would offer area residents opportunities for employment.

Long Battle

The battle for a federal courthouse in the Prince Georges County/Montgomery County area spanned about 17 years. Originally the effort was to create a separate, completely autonomous southern district with the Baltimore courthouse serving the northern district. That focus changed over the years. Thus, the newly created southern district court is not a separate entity. The chief judge and chief clerk will continue to be located in the Baltimore courthouse.

In 1987 Representative Steny H. Hoyer (D-Md.) introduced legislation to establish a southern branch of the Baltimore court. The measure, approved by Congress in 1988, stipulated that the new court would be located in Prince Georges County within five miles of the Montgomery County border and that it would be used for federal criminal and civil cases originating in the five counties comprising the southern division of the U.S. District Court of Maryland. Up to 30 percent of the cases tried in Baltimore are from the Washington area.

Join the Crew

"Why don't you cover the news better in Greenbelt East." "Why didn't you report our organization's meeting?" Those are questions we News Review staff members often hear. And for those new to town the answers are far from evident. We're a newspaper, after all.

Well, even old-timers in town sometimes forget our reality: We're really a very small crew. We work part time. We're volunteers. Sometimes we're stretched to the limit—and even beyond. And that's why we ask you to submit the stories about your own meetings. We try to cover the city-wide issues—the council, GHI (which used to be all the town) and GEAC, the big events.

And that's why, from time to time, we issue an invitation: Come join our ranks.

Want to try your hand at writing? We've some beats to cover, or special stories. Want to do research for us, from your own house, over the phone? Want to work at our ad desk, or rustle up new ads? Want to learn the fine points of editing? Or headline writing? Want to help with billing? Want to learn layout?

There's really a job for every taste, and most can be fitted into your own schedule. What we can offer is flexibility. And fun. And a finger on the pulse of the community.

If those sound attractive, give us a call (441-2662, 493-8336 or leave a message on 474-4131), and we'll be delighted to put you to work.

Council Worksession

On Wednesday, October 10, the Greenbelt City Council will hold a work session with George Christacos, owner of the commercial buildings at Roosevelt Center, to discuss the construction of an addition next to the beauty shop. Council will also discuss the proposed youth advisory board. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building conference room.

Lakeside Association Sets Annual Meeting

Maplewood Court will be the scene of the annual picnic and general meeting of the Lakeside Citizens' Association, on Sunday, October 7. The traditional event features culinary delights and conviviality among the residents of the Lakeside area, notes LCA President Willard Larkin. Festivities will begin at 2 p.m. This social gala of the year is also the time for a general business meeting and the election of officers for the coming year. Besides the slate prepared by the Nominating Committee, nominations from the floor will be welcome. All residents of Lakeside Drive and its four courts are invited.

CLEAN UP ANACOSTIA

Come help clean up the Anacostia River on Saturday, October 6 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Meet at the port of Bladensburg on the Anacostia to help with all types of clean up projects. Picnic lunch, T-shirts, canoes and cranes will be provided; bring gloves and waders if possible. The clean-up is sponsored by The Anacostia Watershed Society, MNCPPC, and 30th Street Nature Center.

Out of Context

To the Editor:

In the 23rd Legislative District, three days before the Primary Election, Delegate Joan Pitkin mailed to selected voters a campaign letter addressed to "Dear Fellow Prolifers."

For that "targeted" mailing Pitkin used an old letterhead listing the names of what she called "People For Pitkin." Our names were on that list but not one of us ever gave permission to have our names used in that context.

Del. Pitkin used our names in support of an issue (anti-choice) that she clearly knew we did not support. We regret any misleading inference our names may have had in influencing voters on this issue.

We are disappointed at Pitkin's poor judgment and lack of sensitivity and we disassociate ourselves from Del. Pitkin's pro-life stand.

THANKS

To the Editor:

It has been almost a month since the Primary Election and a brand-new granddaughter, a trip to Vermont to retrieve my mother and a gala celebration to mark the 90th birthday of that lady; all intervened to prevent a more timely and heartfelt thank you to all who assisted in my campaign and to those who voted to make my nomination to the House of Delegates possible.

I greatly appreciate the trust the voters have placed in me and I welcome the prospect of again serving the citizens of the 23rd legislative district in the Maryland General Assembly. It will be an enormous privilege as it has been these last 12 years, to represent what I recognize is the finest political jurisdiction in the state.

Joan B. Pitkin

Mail Extra Early To Military Overseas

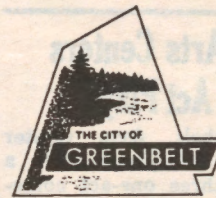

With the first overseas mailing deadlines gone, Postmaster Franklin D. Ford is asking Greenbelt residents for a little extra help this year in making sure that holiday mail sent to military and international destinations arrives on time.

"We would like you to mail overseas early this year to give us extra time to arrange transportation," says Ford.

"Equipping Desert Shield has required an enormous effort on the part of U.S. air and shipping transportation," says Ford. "Last-minute overseas mailing will add an even greater burden. Mailing early will give us extra time to arrange transportation, and the leeway will be especially welcome this year."

The Postal Service issues holiday mailing deadlines every year for letters and parcels headed overseas.

Surface and air mailing deadlines for military personnel stationed abroad generally range from mid-October through November. For mail sent to U.S. addresses, there is no deadline, but Ford recommends getting cards and parcels on their way early in December.
